

After graduating from the famed Studio Berçot, Boulez worked briefly at Mugler to then set sails for New York City where he worked as a design assistant successively for the downtown collective ThreeASFOUR and Zac Posen.

His path lead him to meet Alicia Lombardini whom he assisted for a few years on celebrity dressing until he decided to pursue his own carrier, first in New York and then back in Paris.

In parallel to developing his experience in fashion editorial commissions and commercial works, Boulez has been involved in various projects such as costume design for the Opera National de Paris, le Festival de la Mode et de la Photographie de Hyeres, A Part Publications and much more.

Always looking to expend the fields of his expertise, he today divides his time between his fashion carrier, his involvement with dance projects and developing celebrity image.
